Sub: Importance of Hygiene and Hand washing for students.

Hand washing is an important process for removing or reducing the number of microorganisms from the hands. This in turn will reduce the potential transmission of microorganisms directly to others or to surfaces where they can be picked up by others. Washing of ones hands will also decrease the risk of infectious diseases to self and others. Practicing good hand hygiene prevents the transmission of infections. Therefore, Hand washing is important for all the school students.

Instructions are given in the annual calendar to all the Heads of Govt. schools under DoE that all the important National and International days should be celebrated. Further, special talks are also being organized in the Morning Assembly to sensitize the students about the importance of Hand washing.

All Heads of Govt., Govt. Aided & Unaided Recognized Schools under DoE are hereby directed to encourage all students to wash their hands with soap and water before every meal. Necessary arrangements like soap and water will be made available by all Heads of schools to ensure that the habit is inculcated in children early in the phase of growth and development.

This issues with the approval of the Competent Authority.
