Humanity's interest in the heavens has been universal and enduring. Humans are driven to explore the unknown, discover new worlds, push the boundaries of our scientific and technical limits, and then push further. The intangible desire to explore and challenge the boundaries of what we know and where we have been has provided benefits to our society for centuries. Human space exploration helps to address fundamental questions about our place in the Universe and the history of our solar system. Through addressing the challenges related to human space exploration we expand technology, create new industries, and help to foster a peaceful connection with other nations.

The Indian Space Research Organization (ISRO) is the pioneer space exploration agency of India, demonstrating its unique and cost-effective technologies, has gained place among the elite space agencies in the world over the years. Chandrayaan-3 (चन्द्रयान-3) is the third and most recent lunar Indian Space Research exploration mission under the Chandrayaan programme.
