the street in front of his house. The front sides of each house is not sufficient enough to accommodate a large vehicle/four wheeler. The insufficient parking space in front of houses of the complainant and the alleged is bone of contention between both of them. During enquiry, I had asked the complainant to give his statement in respect of harassment being meted out to him by the alleged but he refused to give his statement and verbally told that he has de-marketed his parking space in front of his house by pegging small iron pipes in the street. He further told that the said iron pipes may not be removed, as this is the only inconvenience he is anticipating from the civic agency as well as from his neighbour. It is also learnt that Shri Kishan Singh had made similar complaints to the Traffic Unit also and he has requested not to remove the said pegged iron pipes in front of his house in the street.

- ii. The contents of the complaint are vague in nature and does not disclose commission of any cognizable offence by the alleged person. The complainant is now relieved from the problem of parking his vehicle in front of his house. Hence, the complaint may be filed please.”
